

Group Supervision Day

with

Trudi Newton (TSTA - education)

Step aside into a reflective space as you join Trudi for a day of group supervision through the lens of Transactional Analysis (TA). Experience the depth of insight and self awareness that supervising in this way can offer.

Participants will experience various creative approaches to supervision - with the opportunity to ask questions and discuss the different methods. There will be opportunities to work with your own supervision question. As always there is rich learning through one's own work as well as being part of colleagues' work within a supervision group.

Together with Hilary Cochrane, Trudi has co-authored the only book to date that approaches supervision with a TA perspective:
